FRYEBURG

Mrs. John F. Phillips passed away on Tuesday evening, April 20th, at her home (the Atwood Homestead) on Main street. She was a native of New Hampshire, N. H., but resided for many years after her marriage in Alexandria, in that state.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips came to Fryeburg to care for their aged relative, the late John Atwood, and since his death have resided in this town.

She had been in ill health for some time and under the care of a trained nurse. Mrs. Phillips was a very estimable woman with a sympathetic and generous disposition.

She was much interested in the church and was a loyal friend of the Grand Army of the Republic, and its kindred organizations, The Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R.

She leaves a husband and three step-sons, one stepdaughter and also grandchildren and other relatives. Her own young son died many years ago.

Mrs. D. R. Hastings and her daughter, Alice Hastings, are spending a few days in Portland.

Edward E. Hastings was in Rochester, N. H., last week and also attended the Probate Court in South Paris.

At the annual reception of the Methuen Mass. High School Alumni Association, Caleb Alexander Page, the principal of the school, who resigned his office last June, was presented with $100 in gold and a beautiful loving cup. The inscription on the latter was as follows: "To Caleb A. Page, Wise Instructor and Faithful Friend." The cup and gold were the tributes of respect from 20 classes in the Methuen High School—1894—1914, Fidelity Court, Mayors. Mr. Page is still connected with the High School having been made instructor in Latin at his request.

Mr. Page is a native of Burlington, Me. He fitted for college at the preparatory school at Little Blue, and is a graduate of Bowdoin College. He was the headmaster of Fryeburg Academy from 1870 to 1873, when he accepted the position of principal in the Warren, Mass. High School, where he remained several years. Then he became principal at Methuen High School. He has many friends in his native State of Maine with whom he renews his acquaintance each summer during the long vacation and who are all interested to learn of his success. Mr. Page remembers each of the graduating classes of Fryeburg Academy with a gold medal, which is presented to that member of the class, who ranks the highest in English composition.

The Fryeburg Woman's Library Club voted to take up the study of American Literature for the next year.

Hattie A. Pike has opened the Parker-Pike summer home on Main Street.

Mrs. J. K. Souther of Brookline Massachusetts, a summer guest at Fryeburg for many years has presented a box of books to Fryeburg's Woman's Club.

Winifred Robinson of the family of Winchester, Massachusetts have been guests at the Argue-Not.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Paul J. Newman, second son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Newman to Virginia Murray of Kansas City, Missouri. Albert Ames Whitmore, instructor on history in the High School at Appleton, Wisconsin, has accepted a position at the University of Maine from which institution he received his degree about ten years ago. While on a walking trip through Switzerland, the past summer Mr. Whitmore was one of the many Americans who were detained abroad by the outbreak of hostility. Mr. Whitmore will begin duties at the University in September.

Wilbur Twombly, who has been one of the firm of Fryeburg Lumber Co., has sold his interest and severed his connections with the company.

HARRISON.

Comedy and Concert
The Ellis Comedy and Concert Co. presented a first-class Vaudeville and Farce comedy at Harrison Grange Hall, Thursday, April, 22. The characters were artists of exceptional ability.

Joe Ellis (Jolly Dutch Comedian) gave funny songs, monologues and fine music. Italia (Dancing Comedian) was some star, and an artist of exceptional ability. Rube Haskell (Eccentric Comedian and Juggler) was very clever. Harry Harper and Grace Lovell were great at music.

We are all in hopes to see this Company again when the Summer Guests are here this coming season.

HIRAM.

A timber lot of a few acres now seems to be the Belgium of Hiram Hill. There is complexity in the title, perplexity in the claimants, and expectancy among the lawyers.

Llewellyn A. Wadsworth went to Brownfield, Monday, to see the Rev. Mr. Arville Spring has visited her daughter, Mrs. Blanche Page, at Fryeburg.

Owen H. and Cyrus H. Goodwin went to Fryeburg, Tuesday.

We learn that the beautiful memorial window, placed in Hiram Universal church by the clergymen of that denomination in memory of Rev. Isaac James Mead, A. M., the first pastor of the church, will be formally dedicated on St. John's Day, June 24, by the Free Masons of Hiram, Brownfield, Denmark, and Cornish. Mr. Mead was a prominent member of Denmark Lodge. His useful and faithful pastorate labors in Hiram from 1873 to 1883 are gratefully remembered by his many friends.

Mrs. Ruth Gould is in poor health. A letter from Rev. Madison K. Mabry of Turner, reports him in good health, aged 90, and on April 16 he became the custodian of the Boston Post gold-headed cane, being the oldest inhabitant.

WELCHVILLE.

It is ruled that cider after it has been made three weeks is just plain booze.

Fresh Corn On the Cob—or Dry Kernels?

Fresh tobacco in the Sickle Plug or dried up tobacco of sliced or granulated tobacco? Real tobacco depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state and is obtainable only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping them in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural vigor and strength of tobacco escape when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickle that is even thoroughly dried so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust. It will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all the original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

The selectmen of Dixfield have a new and commendable idea. They of course know that the good people of that pretty place will do all in their own power to make the village attractive, but they think that perhaps a little more than the usual inducement may not be thrown away, so have offered three prizes, in gold, $20, $10 and $5, for the grounds in the village kept in the most attractive manner from May 1 to October 1, 1915. It will undoubtedly be a case of lustre for those prizes.

ANIMALS AS PROPHETS

Birds and Beasts That Tell of the Coming Storm

The spider, upon the approach of rainy or windy weather, will be found to shorten and strengthen the guys of his web. When the storm is over he will lengthen them again. Seagulls predict storms by assembling on the land, but this is merely a search for food. They instinctively know that the rain will bring the earthworms and larvae to the surface. A shrimp instinct teaches the swallow to fly high in fair weather and skim the ground when foul weather is coming. They simply follow the flies and gnats, which remain in the warm air.

Swine will carry hay and straw to a hiding place, even will lick themselves the wrong way of the hair, sheep will bleat and shiver about, hogs turned out in the woods will come to their pens squealing and grunting, colts will rub their backs against the ground, crows will gather in flocks, crickets will sing more loudly, frogs will croak and change color to a dingy hue, dogs will eat grass and roots near like masts.

In all probability these many actions are due to an uneasiness similar to that which all who are troubled with corns or rheumatism experience just previous to a storm, and are caused by the variation in barometric pressure and the changes in the electrical condition of the atmosphere.

A rainstorm can be expected if dry springs start to flow with no apparent cause, if horses' tracks on a dry road show up wet or damp, if little whirlwinds of dust occur frequently, if chickens begin to "oil up," if flies collect on the outside of screens, if birds become restless and noisy.

The first two indications are due chiefly to the difference between the barometric pressure in the ground and above ground and partly to the amount of moisture in the air. When the barometer falls, which is nearly always a sign of rain, it means that the air pressure is lighter. This brings more water in the soil to the surface. Little whirlwinds of dust are also barometric pressure.

The next indication is a provision of nature that gives birds time to spread oil from the glands above the tail over the feathers, thus keeping the body dry in wet weather. The amount of moisture in the air the humidity is also related to the approach of storms. When moisture collects in large heads on the outside of cold surfaces the humidity is great and rain may be expected.

UNUSED TO CRUELTY.

In a book of travels we read that, in some countries in the far east, if you pick up a stone to throw at a dog, the dog will not run, because there stones have never been thrown at dogs and they do not understand your gesture.

In describing the blue grass fields of Kentucky, Daniel Boone said, "Buffalo were more frequent than I have seen cattle in the settlements, fearless because ignorant of the violence of man."

All new born animals show the same trust in man, based on such ignorance. Would it not be well if all animals could always retain this pathetic confidence in man, who is their God?

This could easily be the case if every child were taught to show justice and mercy to the dependent creatures about him.

The angry citizen puffed into the office of the city editor.

"See here, sir," he yelled, "what do you mean by publishing my resignation from my political office in this way?"

"You gave the story out yourself, didn't you?" asked the editor.

WHY THE UNEMPLOYED.

No Business that is Half Ashamed of Itself Can Ever be Popular.

That the newspapers and the disinterested farmer by ridiculing him is the opinion expressed by many of the farmers' wives who have recently told their woes to the United States department of agriculture, and a Maine woman is among them.

Her letter, which is characteristic of scores of others, says: "Our schools have educated our children away from the soil. Our newspapers have ridiculed the farmer. Much recent legislation has been unfavorable to him. The wife is more sensitive to the idea that the farmer is in an inferior class, more sensitive to the fact that her children go to the cities and become unlike her. The rural around her are abandoned farms and empty houses that a little while ago were happy homes."

More than half the trouble is that, the farmer and especially the farmer's child are ashamed to sell the products of the farm. Those same people when they have left the farm will sell the same kind of products over the counter in the store with no injury to their pride and with head in the air and a firm look in the eye.

The next time you are anything to sell, walk up to the buyer as though conferring a favor. You are on the ground floor. Make a market at your home village for your goods for a fair living price, and it will not be long before you and your goods will be taken at the true value.

A Job For a Printer

A shadow fell across the printer's desk, and he looked up to find a sleep-eyed stranger standing over him holding a sheet of paper in his hand.

"Yes, sir," said the printer. "Can I do anything for you?"

"You can," answered the other, yawning. "I want the answers I have written on this paper to be printed on a very thick, strong piece of gilt-edged cardboard."

"Answers, sir?"

"Yes, answers." Then, after an angry yawn, the tired one became confidential. "I want them printed so that I can hand them to my wife every night when I go to bed. That's why the card must be strong."

"May I read the paper, sir?"

"I'll read it to you myself," replied the weary one. "Yes, I have locked the front door, and the back one. No, I have not left any lights burning. The dog is not in the house. I have not left any cigarettes burning holes in the carpet. That is not a burglar; it is the wind in the chimney. Yes, I will be sure to light the kitchen fire in the morning. No, I will go down to see if the coal cellar is locked. I am tired. I want to go to sleep. Good night."

TAKE CANCER IN TIME

Circular Issued by Committee Maine Medical School

The cancer committee of the Maine Medical association has issued the following circular relative to the importance of taking the disease of cancer in time.

ITS LOCAL BEGINNING.
Cancer is almost invariably at first a local disease.

It is easily cured if promptly recognized and at once removed by competent treatment.

It is practically always incurable in its later stages.

THE DANGER SIGNS.
The disease usually begins in some unhealthy spot or some point of local irritation.

In external cancer there is something to be seen or felt, such as a wart, a mole, a lump or scab, or an unhealed wound, or sore.

Cancer inside the body is often recognized by symptoms before a lump can be seen or felt. Persistent indigestion, with loss of weight and change of color, is especially suspicious.

Persistent abnormal discharge from any part of the body should arouse the suspicion of cancer, particularly if the discharge is bloody.

The early and hopeful stages of cancer are usually painless.

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO.
Fear the beginning of cancer. Never be afraid to know the truth. Any painless lump or sore appearing upon your body should be examined by your physician.

By the time a cancer has become painful the best chance for its cure has passed.

But even a painful cancer can be removed permanently if it has not extended far beyond the place where it began.

SEEK EARLY EXAMINATION.
If you notice that a wart, mole or other "mark" begins to change in appearance or to show signs of irritation go to a physician and have it completely removed. Do not wait until you are sure it is cancerous.

All lumps in the breast should be examined. In women the normal change of life does not lead to increased flowing, which is always suspicious, as is the return of milk after it has stopped.

MEDICINE USELESS.
Medicine which relieves pain does not have any effect upon the disease itself; it simply produces a period of freedom from pain and therefore delays the proper treatment.

LIMITATIONS OF RADIUM.
According to the most authoritative opinion the curative effects of radium are practically limited today to superficial growths of the skin, and to superficial growths of mucous membranes, and certain deep lying tumors of bone, etc., which are not very malignant.

Radium has probably been shown to exert a definite curative effect on certain of these cases where the disease is still local and in the early stages.

Radium definitely relieves suffering when used in the advanced stages of deep-seated cancers; but in those cases it improves only the visible or tangible manifestations, and exerts no effect upon the dissemination of cancer, as a whole. It is believed that there is as yet no proof that radium has finally cured any case of advanced and disseminated cancer.

RADIUM FAKES.
The public should take warning against dishonest and fake, money-getting, pseudo-ure establishments, conducted by individuals who possess little or no radium, and have no knowledge of its use.

These people promise cures, but are, in reality, deceivers, or digress at various palliative effects which are possible from radium.

The best results of radium therapy can be secured only when comparatively large amounts are available for use and the present limited supply of this metal places it out of reach of the great majority of patients.

A MENACE TO THE INDIVIDUAL.
Cancer is of greater frequency at ages over 40 than at younger ages. It is more common in those who have had typhoid fever, or other diseases.

At ages over 40 one person in 11 dies of cancer.

One woman in eight and one man in 14 over 40 years of age is attacked by the disease.

Largely because of public ignorance and neglect cancer now proves fatal in over 90 per cent of the attacks.

A MENACE TO THE NATION.
Of the 75,000 deaths from this disease in the United States in 1913, about 30,000 were deaths from cancer of the stomach and liver, 12,000 from cancer of the uterus and other organs of generation, 7500 from cancer of the breast, and about 25,500 from cancer of other organs and parts.

A MENACE TO SOCIETY.
Cancer respects neither race, creed, nor social position.

It is the common enemy of all mankind, attacking rich and poor alike. Its insidious onset occurs at the most useful period of life, and death is most common at the age when care and guidance of children and the continuance of family responsibilities make the mother and father the most useful members of society.

A MESSAGE OF HOPE.
The only cure for cancer is to remove the cancerous tissue.

The sure way to do this is by a surgical operation.

If taken at the beginning, the majority of cases of cancer are curable.

All cases will end in death if left alone.

Records of our best hospitals prove that the chances of cure are very high with early operation and that these chances decrease with every day of delay.

Early diagnosis is therefore all-important.

A Neighboring Incursion.
Did you hear the rumor last week that the Dutch had taken Holland? No? Well a despatch came here early in the week that a formidable body of French and allied forces were to make a demonstration upon this peaceful island about Friday evening, after a brief parley, surrender to every demand of the foreigners who proved, after all to be only a party of north friends, the Norwegians on our Northern frontier.

Well the object of this neighboring incursion of the forces from Norway was a presentation of two very interesting dramas. The title of the first was Hazel Adams, a play of the melodramatic order with plenty of serious love-making scenes amusing dorky characters, display of revolvers, but no shooting or blood.

The second drama was the evening's grand finale, a comedy of the average rural audience.

THE CRADLE LAND OF HISTORY

While the allied fleet is storming its way to the stronghold of the Turks, it is passing by and bringing into notice lands and towns which are so ancient as to seem almost names without identity.

Yet the cities of Smyrna and Ephesus, the Island of Mitylene, the dozens of all historic villages and mountains are all places which were the center of history hundreds of years before the Christian era.

Mitylene is the modern name for the Island of Lesbos, one of the Grecian archipelago, a spot where "burning Sappho loved and sung." Here people so ancient that their very existence is so mythical flourished nearly 3000 years ago.

Orpheus, the god of music, is said to have visited its shores, and other famous poets and musicians made it their home. Yet today it is the home of a few ignorant Greeks and even more ignorant Turks.

Smyrna, which lies at the head of the gulf of the same name, flourished so long ago that it had a chapel to Nemesis, the goddess of revenge. It was built probably a thousand years before Christ, and is one of the seven cities claiming to be the birthplace of Homer.

On a tiny island now used as a quarantine station, and just outside of the city, the great philosopher Anaxagoras was born. The first Christian church was built here by Bishop Polycarp about 150 years after the crucifixion.

A railroad connects Smyrna with Ephesus, which was the alleged birthplace of the goddess Artemis and the spot at which her famous temple was built. Ephesus was a thousand years old when the Christian era began. Croesus and Alexander the Great visited it; it was subdued by Marc Antony and seen by Cleopatra.

There are to be seen the ruins of the prison in which Paul was held, the rock in which the seven sleepers slumbered, and it was in this city that the great council of the Christian church met in the year 431 to put down the Nestorian heresy.

All these lands, cradles of the human race, the birthplaces of history and the beginning of civilization as it has come down in the last 3000 years, are under the domain of the Turk, yet in a few months, perhaps, they may be awakened to a new life with quite another government.

LITTLE FACTS OF GENERAL INTEREST.

Children should never be allowed continually to catch cold, to go from one attack to another, for repeated attacks inevitably weaken their defense against ill health.

Some persons may say that this is counsel of perfection, but such is not the case. There is always a reason for continual catching and cold should be intelligently removed. Very frequently it lies in unnecessary exposure to infection; and here the remedy is obvious.

Take Precautions.
In many cases there is a predisposition to the trouble, and then special precautions must be taken; sometimes faults of clothing are to blame, and they, too, must be rigorously corrected; while, finally, the general health of the child may be such that any germ has free play—in other words, those important phagocytes are enfeebled or so few that they are unable to cope with their duty.

Then colds will flourish, influenza will find a ready victim, and any other microbe infection which is knocking about will cause disaster.

Prevention of this condition, again, is largely a matter of common sense. The blood must be well oxidized and the body well nourished if the phagocytes are to be both numerous and active. This means that plenty of fresh air must be available, sleeping rooms well ventilated, and a due amount of time spent outdoors, or, if very bad weather makes this impossible, in as large a room as possible with the windows wide open, outdoor things being worn if it is cold, and active exercises indulged in to keep warm.

Ample Plain Food.
The food should be ample and plain, building up the whole system and maintaining it in a proper state of efficiency. And a very important point—where symptoms show that the child is "run down," is appetite flags, temper grows short, sleep restless, or fretfulness develops, some should be immediately given.

Common sense, again, will suggest this procedure after a cold for instance—even a slight one—when one knows the phagocytes must be suffering from their exertions, and vitality be lowered in slight degree. A little extra nourishment given then, or a short course of a special preparation, which directly helps these wonderful little cells, will often work literal wonders in preventing further attacks or more serious mischief.

The glasses we now know as tumblers differ widely from the drinking vessel, to which the name was first applied. These appear to have been of metal or wood, and from their peculiar shape seem to have served as perpetual reminders to be set down except on the side when amply and one derives their name from their original shape, rounded at the bottom so that they tumbled over unless they were carefully set down.
